Pinot

Design: Maja Ganszyniec Studio

Pinot is the embodiment of the idea of a sketch suspended in space— capturing an elusive line that lends lightness and artistic expression to the interior.

The Pinot Collection

In a world that is constantly accelerating, the ability to stop becomes a luxury. Modern offices are evolving, becoming a space for building relationships, exchanging ideas, and creative collaboration. We look for a quality in them that we don’t have at home, and an atmosphere that we know from our favorite cafes.

Pinot is a series of chairs and bar stools that redefines the concept of hospitality in the workplace. These are pieces of furniture that bring an unprecedented lightness to the office, canteen, or hotel lobby. However, behind this visual subtlety and openwork silhouette lies a well-thought-out, solid construction, guaranteeing stability and comfort for years.

Design by Maja Ganszyniec Studio

Maja Ganszyniec is one of the most recognized and acclaimed Polish designers. In her Warsaw studio, founded in 2013, she creates furniture and everyday products where an innovative approach to production meets respect for traditional craftsmanship. Her designs are characterized by rational use of materials, ecological sensitivity, and a deep understanding of human needs.

When designing the Pinot collection for Balma, Maja Ganszyniec combined respect for ergonomics with sculptural sensibility, creating an object that serves for years and delights with its timeless form.

Workspace, meeting spaces

In the era of modern work-life integration, conference rooms and meeting spaces are becoming important points on the office map. The design of the Pinot collection focuses on details that support flexibility. A key distinguishing feature is the discreet handle integrated with the frame line, which allows for intuitive and effortless repositioning of the chairs during spontaneous brainstorming sessions or work in agile zones. They serve people and space, creating a background for what is most important: conversation, ideas, and relationships.

Craftsmanship and the dialogue of textures

In the digital world, full of flat screens, Pinot restores the invaluable worth of the senses. Here, we juxtaposed the cool, uncompromising precision of the steel frame with the organic warmth of natural wood and the enveloping softness of carefully selected fabrics. It is precisely in this conscious dialogue of textures that the true, uncompromising quality of the collection lies.

From the office to a cozy cafe

Pinot is a collection that brings the atmosphere of a favorite restaurant to the office, blurring the boundary between „work” and „life.” Whether you are designing an office, restaurant, hotel lobby, or clinic, the openwork form of Pinot smoothly adapts to the environment, bringing visual silence, ergonomics, and prestige. The appropriate construction (sloped rear legs) protects walls from damage, and short armrests allow the chair to be hung on the table. This is the ideal solution for dynamic, bustling places.
