Celebrating movement

A Dynamic Lightweight

The HÅG Conventio Wing 9811 is a dynamic chair especially designed for meetings, conferences and schools. It's light and airy, yet sturdy, and enables you to arrange rows of seating quickly and efficiently.

The simple maintenance of the HÅG Conventio Wing also makes it well-suited as a general purpose chair for canteens, cafés, hotels, auditoriums and libraries. Armrests and the HÅG Writing Tablet are available as optional extras.

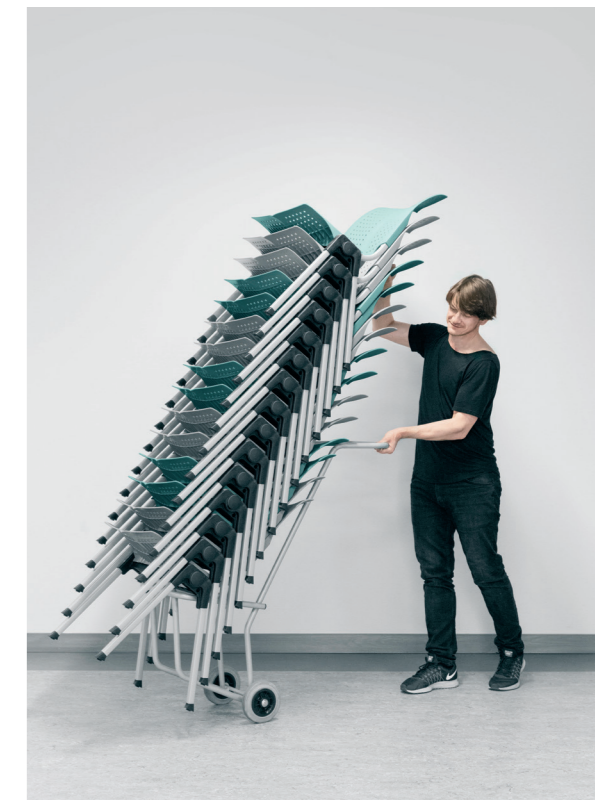

After a meeting, the chair is easy to stack away and the HÅG Conventio Wing 9811 can be stacked fifteen high.

Rock the Chair

The integrated rocking mechanism, HÅG in Balance® technology ensures more subconscious movement and inspires variation. This improves the ability to stay alert and concentrated in long meetings or lectures.

Constructed from lightweight materials that can withstand rough treatment, the wing or "opened-book" shape back gives the chair a fresh shape and makes it extra robust.

The HÅG Conventio Wing is self-stabilizing on uneven ground and is never unstable when sitting.

Optional Extras

- Armrests
- Chair Hanger
- HÅG Writing Tablet
- Connecting Device
- Trolley
- Chair suspension

The Designer

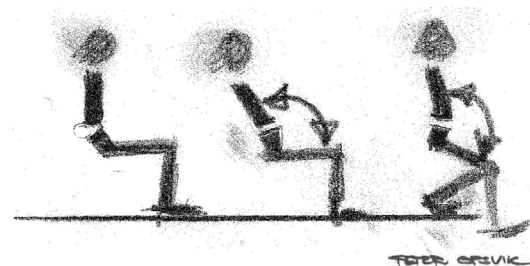

Peter Opsvik

In the 1970's many experts attempted to establish the optimum sitting position. Peter Opsvik's contribution has been to create products that inspire movement and variation between many different postures, but all in the same chair.

Opsvik has a strong focus on product design as a mean for solving real-life problems. Core competence is furniture design, interior design, ergonomics, environmental oriented solutions, engineering and communication.

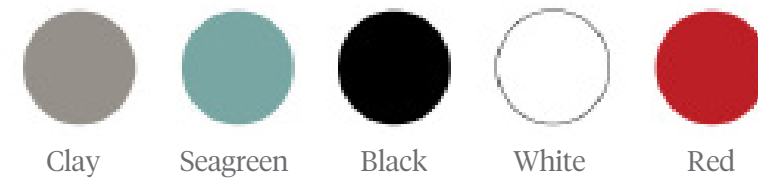

Peter Opsvik and his colleagues have collaborated with HÅG since 1974 and have made a major contribution to the philosophy on which HÅG builds its business. HÅG Capisco and HÅG Capisco Puls are some of Peter Opsvik's most well-known and successful creations.

The HÅG Conventio Wing was launched in 2006 and is one of HÅG's most popular chair, especially designed for meeting rooms, class rooms and conference centers.
